Control of sialylation and branching in the core oligosaccharides of hemagglutinin by the glycosyltransferase loci Tn and Tn2, respectively, in Bordetella pertussis. The Bordetella pertussis strain Tohama I has been shown previously to produce an unbranched core to its lipooligosaccharide (LOS). This is due to the presence of functional alleles of the Tn and Tn2 loci in the LOS biosynthesis gene cluster. In this work, expression of Tn in the Tohama I background was shown to cause a significant increase in the number of sialic acid residues (approximately twofold) and a loss of branched structures in the LOS. Tn also caused a reduction in the levels of the galactosylated and glucosylated GlcNAc residues in the core glycan. Expression of the Tn2 locus from the Tohama I background was found to cause a significant increase (approximately twofold) in the numbers of sialic acid residues in the LOS. Tn2 also caused a reduction in the level of branching of the LOS core. These results are consistent with the presence of Tn and Tn2 being responsible for the generation of alternative glycosylation products.Q: Fragment com javascript Criei um meu fragment na seguinte maneira, porém preciso acessar a um método do controller do bootstrap. var fragment = $('', { 'class' : 'carousel-inner', 'id' : 'carousel-inner', 'data-interval' : 'false', 'data-slide-to' : '2' }) var carousel = $('', { 'class' : 'carousel-inner', 'id' : 'carousel-inner', 'data-interval' : 'false', 'data-slide-to' : '2' }) carousel.append( $('', { 'class' : 'active', 'id' : 'active', '
